A historic event is on the horizon – Doyle Drive is coming down! Traffic will be permanently taken off Doyle Drive and moved onto a seismically safe, temporary bypass made up of the new southbound bridge and tunnel and a temporary roadway. In order to move traffic to the temporary bypass, Doyle Drive will be closed for one weekend, April 27 - 30.

Demolition of the old structure will begin during the closure weekend; a fleet of nearly 40 demolition hammers will be used to remove the elevated highway. Much like the dramatic removal of the Embarcadero freeway near downtown San Francisco, this demolition will reveal views of the northern waterfront after the bulky highway structure is removed.

NEW DRIVING CONDITION AFTER CLOSURE!

THE TEMPORARY PHASE II DRIVING CONDITION WILL:

- Utilize the new southbound bridge, tunnel and a temporary roadway
- Have five lanes with a moveable median barrier to manage bidirectional traffic
- Meet today’s seismic safety standards
- Improve traffic safety and prevent head-on collisions
- Allow the remaining elements of the Presidio Parkway to be built
- Carry traffic through the end of the project
- Take some time for drivers to get used to! Expect delays as drivers adjust

CLOSURE QUICK FACTS

- April 27 – 30, 8 p.m. Friday to 5 a.m. Monday
- Drivers should avoid the closure area
- Golden Gate Bridge to Hwy 1 will remain open, however, expect major delays
- No access to Hwy 101 from Marina Blvd. or Lombard St.
- The public is encouraged to use buses, ferries, or the Bay Bridge
- Businesses in the area will be open
Tearing down the old Doyle Drive is a major step in the Presidio Parkway project which will allow the second phase of construction to continue. Crews will begin demolishing the eastern portion of Doyle Drive during the weekend closure. Nearly 40 demolition hammers will be used to remove 285,000 square feet of roadway deck and 5 million pounds of steel.

Expect noise during the closure weekend as crews work around the clock to take down critical portions of Doyle Drive!
